From: Port of Seattle <PortofSeattle@public.govdelivery.com>

Subject: FlyHealthy@SEA for July 31, 2020

2

Receive Updates Enter Email Address   Go

FlyHealthy@SEA for July 31, 2020

Port of Seattle Washington sent this bulletin at 07/31/2020 11:46 AM PDT

FlyHealthy@SEA: We're Happy to See You

The COVID-19 global pandemic forced massive shifts in our lives. We now expect different behavior from each other and new protocols from businesses to protect our health.

Our team at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport (SEA) is ready for the incremental increases in air travel now and to come. We require face coverings, escalated cleaning and disinfecting, implemented physical distancing, and added touchless technologies. We are happy to see you as we stretch towards 20,000 daily departing passengers.

The Next Phase of FlyHealthy@SEA

On July 28, 2020, SEA Managing Director Lance Lyttle and Director of Customer Experience Julie Collins briefed the Port of Seattle Commission on the next phase of FlyHealthy@SEA. The multi-layer health and safety program now includes Mask Up SEA, our facial covering promotion campaign, and temperature screening equipment and proof of concept tests for international and domestic departing passengers.

In partnership with Alaska Airlines, we conducted a voluntary proof of concept to screen domestic departing passengers for elevated temperatures above 100.4

FlyHealthy@SEA for July 31, 2020

From: Port of Seattle <PortofSeattle@public.govdelivery.com>

Subject: FlyHealthy@SEA for July 31, 2020