

- Email \(HTML\)
- Email \(Plain Text\)

From: Port of Seattle <PortofSeattle@public.govdelivery.com>
Subject: Port of Seattle Connections, January 24, 2020

View this email in your browser

CONNECTIONS

A community resource covering opportunities and activities at the Port of Seattle

Seattle-Tacoma International Airport

Overnight operation moves massive aerial walkway

Last night Seattle-Tacoma International Airport (SEA) completed a major milestone in the construction of its International Arrivals Facility (IAF), moving into place the longest aerial walkway of its kind in the world. When complete, the elevated pedestrian walkway will rise 85 feet over an active taxi lane with planes travelling underneath.

The overnight move brought the 320-foot-long center span walkway from Cargo 2 down the closed center runway to the bridge's final destination between the South Satellite and new facility. Later today, four span jacks will lift the center span into place.

This new facility, opening in 2020, creates a modern welcome to the world and improves the customer experience for international arrivals.

Learn more

A new era for Seattle-Tacoma International Airport

SEA launched a monumental year and decade today by ushering in a new era of customer-centered travel. The airport unveiled a new SEA airport brand identity and a suite of improvements that reflect the spirit of our Pacific Northwest home. The traveling public will begin seeing new brightly colored signage, uniforms and digital tools (www.flySEA.org) today as the first examples of the airport's commitment to elevating the travel experience.

Travelers can also look forward to new community-focused experiences and customer services including the expansion of SEA Visitor Pass, a free program that allows approved, non-ticketed visitors to go post-security to spend more time with friends and family. The program has doubled to allow 200 non-ticketed visitors per day.

Learn more

Healthy Habitats and Communities

Port awards environmental grants to five near-airport community groups

Communities in Burien, Des Moines, and SeaTac will soon enjoy new and expanded environmental projects benefiting high school students, parks, and gardens. The Port of Seattle awarded its fifth round of grants provided by the Airport Community Ecology (ACE) Fund. Five organizations will receive a total of $45,000 in funds.

The ACE Fund offers grants to organizations to improve the natural environment through projects and programs that improve livability in near-airport communities. In the three projects and programs that improve livability in near airport communities. In the three years since the Commission authorized the program, the Port has funded 33 unique projects for a total of just under $285,000.

To celebrate the success of all the ACE projects funded to date, the Port is hosting the first Airport Community Ecology Symposium on February 1 from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Highline College. Topics include equitable access to healthy food through community gardens, urban forest management and restoration, and environmental education for multicultural audiences.

Register

Nominate your organization for an Environmental Excellence Award

Is your organization a leader in environmental stewardship and sustainability that operates at SEA or Port facilities? The Port is accepting nominations through Feb. 14, 2020 by 5 p.m. for the Environmental Excellence Awards for Maritime and airport businesses and organizations.

These awards showcase outstanding environmental accomplishments by maritime and airport customers, tenants, non-profits, and business partners. Businesses and organizations of all sizes, including small, minority-owned, women-owned, or disadvantaged businesses are encouraged to apply.

Questions?

Maritime Businesses Contact: Jane Dewell, (206) 787-4668 or Mike Desota, (206) 787-3344

SEA Airport Businesses Contact: Jeremy Webb, (206) 787-5395

Apply now

Port, regional, and state leaders voice support for clean fuels

Regional business and elected leaders are calling on the Washington State Legislature to pass a Clean Fuel Standard in its 2020 legislative session. Governor Jay Inslee and State Representative Joe Fitzgibbon joined Port of Seattle Commissioners Fred Felleman and Ryan Calkins to announce their support for the standard, which would create an incentive for airlines to promote the use of sustainable aviation fuels. Alaska, the Port, and the State of Washington have partnered to lead the national conversation around Sustainable Aviation Fuels since 2010.

The legislation, House Bill 1110, will require fuel providers to reduce the carbon pollution from transportation fuels over time. A Clean Fuel Standard has had strong support in 2019 among a diverse group including public health groups, local elected officials, automobile manufacturers, environmental justice groups, clean energy businesses, and science and medical professionals.

Learn more

Maritime

Maritime Blue Innovation Accelerator cohort celebrates launch at Port headquarters

A lively group of maritime professionals, community stakeholders, and project leaders filled the atrium of the Port of Seattle's Pier 69 headquarters for a first-time glimpse at the cohort of new ideas selected by a partnership between the Port of Seattle, Maritime Blue, and WeWork Labs. Governor Jay Inslee, Port of Seattle Commission Vice President Fred Felleman, and Elizabeth Scallon of WeWork Labs gave remarks.

The 11 selected startups for the Maritime Blue Innovation Accelerator, will work out of WeWork Labs' Seattle location, and benefit from intensive programming and mentorship opportunities over an accelerated 4-month period. Innovation across Washington's maritime sector is critical for a thriving economy and in the fight to protect our planet and ocean life. These challenges loom large and demand more intentional efforts to ensure solutions are sought by a broader cross-section of companies and individuals, utilizing innovative approaches, such as a maritime accelerator.

Learn more

Supporting Small Business

A labor of love at a family-owned airport business

When Marques Warren visits SEA, it feels a little like going home. Warren was 12 when his father opened his first store at SEA, a news and gift shop on the B Concourse called Northwest Encounter. The shop was truly a family business and Warren grew up spending weekends in the back of the shop stocking shelves. In 2004, the family business, called Warren's News & Gift, (WNG) began its partnership with Hudson Group, one of the largest and most recognizable travel retailers in North America.

The Port of Seattle has long been a supporter of small business growth and workforce development, and has made contracting with small firms, including disadvantaged, minority and women-owned businesses a priority.

Learn more

Port Commission Actions

The Port is committed to a future of expanded opportunity. Waterfront and airport investments commit to today's residents and the next generations that this Port will continue expanding economic opportunity, social inclusion, and environmental and community health.

Port priorities featured in state legislative session agenda

The Washington State Legislature kicked off its 2020 State Legislative Session this month, which will run for the next 60 days. Throughout the 2020 session, the Port will align its advocacy work with its overriding values of economic development, environmental stewardship, and equity.

Legislative agenda items that are Port priorities for 2020 include supporting enacting a statewide Clean Fuel Standard, building flexibility in distributing environmental funds, working to advance trade and economic growth, and participating in advocacy days,

Learn more

Port Commission kicks off 2020 with new Commissioner, officers

Two Port of Seattle Commissioners were sworn in at the first Commission meeting of 2020. Newly elected Commissioner Sam Cho was sworn in by his mother. Re-elected Commissioner Fred Felleman was sworn in by Suquamish Tribal Chairman, Leonard Forsman. Peter Steinbrueck will serve as Commission President for 2020. Commissioner Felleman will serve as Commission Vice-President, with Commissioner Cho serving as Commission Secretary.

Ongoing projects and priorities for the year include improving the experience for the traveling public at SEA; increasing the environmental sustainability and resiliency of our operations, facilities, and Port-related industries; and expanding equity, diversity and inclusion at the Port and our related industries, and in our communities.

Learn more

January 28

The Port Commission will hear an annual progress report on Port-wide Human Trafficking Strategy implementation and consider authorization of removal of current and future flight path obstructions from non-port properties and associated replanting of replacement trees.

Commissioners will also receive briefings on International Arrival Facility progress and the Sustainable Airport Master Plan Near-Term Projects Environmental Review.

Full agenda

January 7

The Port of Seattle Commission adopted the charter of a Port Commission Biometrics Special Committee to review the proposals of the Biometrics Working Group and Advisory Group and develop new policies or update existing policies.

The Commission also approved an interlocal agreement with the Washington Department of Transportation for $30 million of funds for the construction of the Puget Sound Gateway Program. Commissioners also heard a briefing on the Federal Legislative Agenda for 2020 and approved a motion to elect commission officers for 2020.

View video

In the Media

My 'daycation' at SEA: Everything you need to know about airport gate pass programs

The Points Guy shared that the popularity of visitor-pass programs is a sure sign that airports have a destination appeal all their own.

Commissioner Sam Cho on the importance of embracing and continuing to celebrate diversity

NW Asian weekly shared an edited version of remarks made by Seattle Port Commissioner Sam Cho as he was sworn into office.

Washington State plans second major Puget Sound airport to ease gridlock

ENR reported that a meeting by the state's Commercial Aviation Coordination Commission kicks off 2020 with a concerted effort to narrow down possible sites for a second airport, with a plan to have it built and operating by 2040.

Alaska cruises expected to bring 200,000 more visitors to Seattle this year

Puget Sound Business Journal reported that bigger vessels and instability in the Middle East will help bring 200,000 more cruise ship visitors to Seattle this year for Alaska journeys.

In Case you Missed it on Social Media

SEA our new brand in this Instagram reveal.

United Airlines debuts its Star Wars-themed plane in this Twitter post.

We're celebrating Fishermen's Terminal's 106th birthday in this Facebook post.

Interested in More Industry News?

The Northwest Seaport Alliance (NWSA) is a marine cargo operating partnership of the Port of Seattle and Port of Tacoma. Sign up to receive the NWSA newsletter or subscribe to the Port of Tacoma newsletter.

Photos by Port staff.

Stay tuned for our next issue of Connections February 7.

Port of Seattle Commission

Stephanie Bowman | Ryan Calkins | Sam Cho | Fred Felleman | Peter Steinbrueck

Executive Director: Stephen P. Metruck

unsubscribe from this list | update subscription preferences

This email was sent to Email Address using GovDelivery Communications Cloud on behalf of: Port of Seattle Washington · 2711 Alaskan Way · Seattle, WA 98121

From: Port of Seattle <PortofSeattle@public.govdelivery.com>

Subject: Port of Seattle Connections, January 24, 2020

News about environment, airport, and small business

View this email in your browser [<https://content.govdelivery.com/accounts/WASEATTLEPORT/bulletins/275ee8d>]

December 2019 Connections newsletter header

Seattle-Tacoma International Airport

Overnight operation moves massive aerial walkway
IAF bridge lift

Last night Seattle-Tacoma International Airport (SEA) completed a major milestone in the construction of its International Arrivals Facility (IAF), moving into place the longest aerial walkway of its kind in the world. When complete, the elevated pedestrian walkway will rise 85 feet over an active taxi lane with planes travelling underneath.

The overnight move brought the 320-foot-long center span walkway from Cargo 2 down the closed center runway to the bridges final destination between the South Satellite and new facility. Later today, four span jacks will lift the center span into place.

This new facility, opening in 2020, creates a modern welcome to the world and improves the customer experience for international arrivals.

Learn more [<https://www.portseattle.org/blog/five-fast-facts-about-iaf-pedestrian-walkway>]

A new era for Seattle-Tacoma International Airport
SEA brand

SEA launched a monumental year and decade today by ushering in a new era of customer-centered travel. The airport unveiled a new SEA airport brand identity and a suite of improvements that reflect the spirit of our Pacific Northwest home. The traveling public will begin seeing new brightly colored signage, uniforms and digital tools (www.flySEA.org [<http://www.flysea.org/>]) today as the first examples of the airports commitment to elevating the travel experience.

Travelers can also look forward to new community-focused experiences and customer services including the expansion of SEA Visitor Pass, [<https://www.portseattle.org/news/its-back-sea-visitor-pass-returns-airport-allowing-post-security-visits>] a free program that allows approved, non-ticketed visitors to go post-security to spend more time with friends and family. The program has doubled to allow 200 non-ticketed visitors per day.

Learn more [<https://www.portseattle.org/news/sea-airport-kicks-major-customer-focused-initiatives-and-amenities>]

Healthy Habitats and Communities

Port awards environmental grants to five near-airport community groups
ACE fund

Communities in Burien, Des Moines, and SeaTac will soon enjoy new and expanded environmental projects benefiting high school students, parks, and gardens. The Port of Seattle awarded its fifth round of grants provided by the Airport Community Ecology (ACE) Fund [<https://www.portseattle.org/page/airport-community-ecology-ace-fund>]. Five organizations will receive a total of $45,000 in funds [<https://www.portseattle.org/news/port-seattle-awards-45000-environmental-grants-five-community-groups>].

The ACE Fund offers grants to organizations to improve the natural environment through projects and programs that improve livability in near-airport communities. In the three years since the Commission authorized the program, the Port has funded 33 unique projects for a total of just under $285,000.

To celebrate the success of all the ACE projects funded to date, the Port is hosting the first Airport Community Ecology Symposium on February 1 from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Highline College. Topics include equitable access to healthy food through community gardens, urban forest management and restoration, and environmental education for multicultural audiences.

Register [<https://www.portseattle.org/events/ace-symposium>]

Nominate your organization for an Environmental Excellence Award
Environmental Excellence

Is your organization a leader in environmental stewardship and sustainability that operates at SEA or Port facilities? The Port is accepting nominations through Feb. 14, 2020 by 5 p.m. for the Environmental Excellence Awards for Maritime and airport businesses and organizations.

These awards showcase outstanding environmental accomplishments by maritime and airport customers, tenants, non-profits, and business partners. Businesses and organizations of all sizes, including small, minority-owned, women-owned, or disadvantaged businesses are encouraged to apply.

Questions?

Maritime Businesses Contact: Jane Dewell, (206) 787-4668 or Mike Desota, (206) 787-3344

SEA Airport Businesses Contact: Jeremy Webb, (206) 787-5395

Apply now [<https://www.portseattle.org/programs/environmental-excellence-awards-program>]

Port, regional, and state leaders voice support for clean fuels
Clean fuel standard

Regional business and elected leaders are calling on the Washington State Legislature to pass a Clean Fuel Standard in its 2020 legislative session. Governor Jay Inslee and State Representative Joe Fitzgibbon joined Port of Seattle Commissioners Fred Felleman and Ryan Calkins to announce their support for the standard, which would create an incentive for airlines to promote the use of sustainable aviation fuels. Alaska, the Port, and the State of Washington have partnered to lead the national conversation around Sustainable Aviation Fuels since 2010.

The legislation, House Bill 1110, will require fuel providers to reduce the carbon pollution from transportation fuels over time. A Clean Fuel Standard has had strong support in 2019 among a diverse group including public health groups, local elected officials, automobile manufacturers, environmental justice groups, clean energy businesses, and science and medical professionals.

Learn more [<https://www.portseattle.org/news/support-clean-fuels-continues-grow>]

Maritime

Maritime Blue Innovation Accelerator cohort celebrates launch at Port headquarters
Maritime Accelerator cohort

A lively group of maritime professionals, community stakeholders, and project leaders filled the atrium of the Port of Seattles Pier 69 headquarters for a first-time glimpse at the cohort of new ideas selected by a partnership between the Port of Seattle, Maritime Blue, and WeWork Labs. Governor Jay Inslee, Port of Seattle Commission Vice President Fred Felleman, and Elizabeth Scallon of WeWork Labs gave remarks.

The 11 selected startups for the Maritime Blue Innovation Accelerator, [<https://www.portseattle.org/news/partnership-announces-cohort-washingtons-first-maritime-accelerator-launching-january-2020>]will work out of WeWork Labs' Seattle location, and benefit from intensive programming and mentorship opportunities over an accelerated 4-month period. Innovation across Washingtons maritime sector is critical for a thriving economy and in the fight to protect our planet and ocean life. These challenges loom large and demand more intentional efforts to ensure solutions are sought by a broader cross-section of companies and individuals, utilizing innovative approaches, such as a maritime accelerator.

Learn more [<http://maritimeblue.org/blue-accelerator/>]

Supporting Small Business

A labor of love at a family-owned airport business
marques warren

When Marques Warren visits SEA, it feels a little like going home. Warren was 12 when his father opened his first store at SEA, a news and gift shop on the B Concourse called Northwest Encounter. The shop was truly a family business and Warren grew up spending weekends in the back of the shop stocking shelves. In 2004, the family business, called Warrens News & Gift, (WNG) began its partnership with Hudson Group, one of the largest and most recognizable travel retailers in North America.

The Port of Seattle has long been a supporter of small business growth and workforce development, and has made contracting with small firms, including disadvantaged, minority and women-owned businesses a priority.

Learn more [<https://www.portseattle.org/blog/labor-love-family-owned-airport-business>]

Port Commission Actions

The Port is committed to a future of expanded opportunity. Waterfront and airport investments commit to todays residents and the next generations that this Port will continue expanding economic opportunity, social inclusion, and environmental and community health.

Port priorities featured in state legislative session agenda
Legislative update

The Washington State Legislature kicked off its 2020 State Legislative Session this month, which will run for the next 60 days. Throughout the 2020 session, the Port will align its advocacy work with its overriding values of economic development, environmental stewardship, and equity.

Legislative agenda items that are Port priorities for 2020 include supporting enacting a statewide Clean Fuel Standard, building flexibility in distributing environmental funds, working to advance trade and economic growth, and participating in advocacy days,

Learn more [<https://www.portseattle.org/blog/environment-trade-and-maritime-featured-state-legislative-session-agenda>]

Port Commission kicks off 2020 with new Commissioner, officers
commissioners

Two Port of Seattle Commissioners were sworn in at the first Commission meeting of 2020. Newly elected Commissioner Sam Cho was sworn in by his mother. Re-elected Commissioner Fred Felleman was sworn in by Suquamish Tribal Chairman, Leonard Forsman. Peter Steinbrueck will serve as Commission President for 2020. Commissioner Felleman will serve as Commission Vice-President, with Commissioner Cho serving as Commission Secretary.

Ongoing projects and priorities for the year include improving the experience for the traveling public at SEA; increasing the environmental sustainability and resiliency of our operations, facilities, and Port-related industries; and expanding equity, diversity and inclusion at the Port and our related industries, and in our communities.

Learn more [<https://www.portseattle.org/news/steinbrueck-elected-port-commission-president>]

The Port Commission will hear an annual progress report on Port-wide Human Trafficking Strategy implementation and consider authorization of removal of current and future flight path obstructions from non-port properties and associated replanting of replacement trees.

Commissioners will also receive briefings on International Arrival Facility progress and the Sustainable Airport Master Plan Near-Term Projects Environmental Review.

Full agenda [http://meetings.portseattle.org/index.php?option=com_meetings&view=meeting&Itemid=358&id=1888&active=attachments]

January 7

The Port of Seattle Commission adopted the charter of a Port Commission Biometrics Special Committee to review the proposals of the Biometrics Working Group and Advisory Group and develop new policies or update existing policies.

The Commission also approved an interlocal agreement with the Washington Department of Transportation for $30 million of funds for the construction of the Puget Sound Gateway Program. Commissioners also heard a briefing on the Federal Legislative Agenda for 2020 and approved a motion to elect commission officers for 2020.

View video [https://meetings.portseattle.org/index.php?option=com_meetings&view=meeting&Itemid=358&id=1886&active=play]

In the Media

My daycation at SEA: Everything you need to know about airport gate pass programs

The Points Guy shared that the popularity of visitor-pass programs [<https://thepointsguy.com/guide/seattle-tacoma-airport-gate-pass-program/>] is a sure sign that airports have a destination appeal all their own.

Commissioner Sam Cho on the importance of embracing and continuing to celebrate diversity

NW Asian weekly shared an edited version of remarks made by Seattle Port Commissioner Sam Cho [<https://nwasianweekly.com/2020/01/commentary-sam-cho-on-the-importance-of-embracing-and-continuing-to-celebrate-diversity/>] as he was sworn into office.

Washington State plans second major Puget Sound airport to ease gridlock

ENR reported that a meeting by the states Commercial Aviation Coordination Commission [<https://www.enr.com/blogs/15-evergreen/post/48424-washington-planning-creation-of-second-major-airport>]kicks off 2020 with a concerted effort to narrow down possible sites for a second airport, with a plan to have it built and operating by 2040.

Alaska cruises expected to bring 200,000 more visitors to Seattle this year

Puget Sound Business Journal reported that bigger vessels and instability [<https://www.bizjournals.com/seattle/news/2020/01/17/windstar-cruises-expected-increase-seattle-tourism.html>] in the Middle East will help bring 200,000 more cruise ship visitors to Seattle this year for Alaska journeys.

In Case you Missed it on Social Media

SEA our new brand in this Instagram reveal. [<https://www.instagram.com/seatacairport/>]

United Airlines debuts its Star Wars-themed plane [<https://twitter.com/SeaTacAirport/status/1212871802659061760>] in this Twitter post.

Were celebrating Fishermens Terminals [https://www.facebook.com/portseattle/posts/10156927678111463?__tn__=-R] 106th birthday in this Facebook post.

Interested in More Industry News?

The Northwest Seaport Alliance (NWSA [<https://www.nwseaportalliance.com/#/maps/overview>]) is a marine cargo operating partnership of the Port of Seattle and Port of Tacoma. Sign up to receive the NWSA newsletter [<https://www.nwseaportalliance.com/subscribe>]or subscribe to the Port of Tacoma [https://www.portoftacoma.com/subscribe/WAPT_96/Port%20news] newsletter.

"Photos by Port staff."

Stay tuned for our next issue of Connections February 7.

Copyright 2020 | All rights reserved| Port of Seattle|2711 Alaskan Way | Seattle, WA 98121

Port of Seattle Commission
Stephanie Bowman| Ryan Calkins| Sam Cho | Fred Felleman | Peter Steinbrueck

*Executive Director:*Stephen P. Metruck

unsubscribe from this list [[\[\[ONECLICK_UNSUB_URL\]\]](#)]|update subscription preferences [<https://public.govdelivery.com/accounts/WASEATTLEPORT/subscriber/edit?preferences=true#tab1>]

facebook [<https://www.facebook.com/portseattle/?fref=ts>]twitter [<https://twitter.com/PortofSeattle>]youtube [<https://www.youtube.com/user/PortofSeattle>]

This email was sent to Email Address using GovDelivery Communications Cloud on behalf of: Port of Seattle
Washington 2711 Alaskan Way Seattle, WA 98121 GovDelivery logo [<https://subscriberhelp.granicus.com/>]