TAKING FLIGHT

FlyHealthy@SEA: New steps for safe travel

Your safety, health, and well-being come first. Our FlyHealthy@SEA program uses a multi-phased and layered strategy at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport (SEA), which includes requiring face coverings or masks, escalating cleaning, implementing physical distancing, and adding touchless technologies. As part of that effort, we are partnering with Alaska Airlines on a voluntary proof of concept to screen domestic departing passengers for elevated temperatures above 100.4 degrees. Help us name your Duwamish River Port parks

We need community input to rename six Port-owned parks along the Duwamish River: Turning Basin #3, 8th Ave South Park, Terminal 117, Terminal 107 Park, Terminal 108/Diagonal Street Public Access, and Terminal 105 Park. These beloved green spaces provide a place for wildlife and communities, but the names do not tell the full story of our region and its people. Help us choose names that recognize community stewardship and celebrate the full cultural and ecological significance of the river. Name your park now →

Port to establish task force on policing and civil rights

A broad consensus has formed in the United States that a close examination of current policing practices is necessary and urgent. A new task force on Port policing and civil rights, established by the Commission, will lead a comprehensive assessment of the Port Police Department to ensure alignment with the highest national standards and best practices, and develop recommendations for action.
