HAPPY HOLIDAYS!

Check out the major upgrades happening at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport (SEA)!

C CONCOURSE EXPANSION

New Year, New Look for C Concourse as Major Changes are Coming

Major construction will kick off on the C Concourse Expansion Project with a new wall to protect the old C1 Building that will span from just outside Checkpoint 4, around and down the center of the C Concourse corridor just past Gate C3. This will create a barrier to allow the project team to open the current building to the elements to get ready to build it up four stories higher.

This project adds additional space and square footage and also opens up more opportunities for Airport Dining and Retail (ADR) space. The Port of Seattle Commission recently approved an RFP in Q1 2024 for 13 new dining and retail spaces for this project. Take a flight through this virtual tour to see the vision for this new facility and all the opportunities for new restaurants and retail.

ROADWAY IMPROVEMENTS

Prep Work on Air Cargo Road Underway for Roadway Improvements

As you drive into SEA Airport, you'll notice crews starting work on the hillside near Air Cargo Road to support the Roadway Improvements Project. Next year, construction will begin to relocate Air Cargo Road adjacent to a newly built retaining wall. This is the start of the widening of the roadways that access the Arrivals drive and the Main Garage and will help improve access to parking, the ground transportation center, and curbsides. The goal is to alleviate congestion and reduce queuing on the main roadway entrances for airport visitors and passengers and enhance roadway safety.

Watch this Checking in video and take a ride with Capital Program Leader, Heather Bornhorst, about how this project will help alleviate current congestion problems.

While in the thick of construction on the SEA Gateway Project, in partnership with Alaska Airlines, we're planning for the future by announcing the list of artists selected to display their artwork in these redesigned spaces. These pieces will adorn the Ticketing and Bag Claim Levels in a number of different media forms. Selections will also represent diverse, local, and first-time airport artists.

Artist in Residence Program Nurtures New Art

A multitude of artists will be commissioning unique new pieces for the C Concourse Expansion (CCE) project. To make this happen, the Port's Public Art Program collaborated with the Pilchuck Glass School and the Museum of Glass to develop a first-of-its-kind Artist in Residence Program. Two CCE artists are participating in residencies at each institution in the years leading up to the building opening. Each residency helps these artists experiment and brainstorm to create their final piece for the CCE. They have completed their program at Pilchuck Glass School and next year they will begin to hone in on a final design for their respective pieces at the Museum of Glass.

Find out how artist Fumi Amano used the two-week Pilchuck residency to help further her love of glass and advance her practice of glass art. Her final piece will be a glass sculpture on the Lookout Deck.

Learn how artist Crystal Worl used her time during the two-week Pilchuck residency to test ideas and envision the possibilities of her final piece. Crystal's final piece will be a glass art piece along the wall by the restroom on the main level.

SEA's Restroom Renovation project opened another set of restrooms on the C Concourse. After opening a brand-new set of restrooms just past Gate C3, the older restrooms right next door shut down for a refresh. The remodeled Women's Restroom opened in November and the Men's just opened earlier this week in December. As always, more potty improvements are on the way!

The Port of Seattle's Business Accelerator Program finished another successful round of its groundbreaking program for Women and Minority-owned businesses (WMBE). This business development program helps WMBE businesses learn from leaders and mentors and develop the necessary skills to grow their businesses. They also learn how to partner with the Port and other agencies and primes.
